

A.H. RIISE

1838

ROYAL DANISH NAVY FROGMAN CONVENTUS RANAE

1838

TASTING NOTES

COLOR | Golden red

NOSE | Despite the high alcohol volume, it is a rather light nose, dominated by balsamic glaze and molca with orange zest on top and a hint of toast

TASTE |

The alcohol is more present on the palate but in a nice and integrated way, where the notes from the nose all re-appear as well as pineapple and coconut

FINISH |

Very creamy with notes of dark chocolate and molca

What better way to commemorate the Danish Frogman Corps than with a unique blend whose nearly 200-year-long history has had a long and established connection with the Royal Danish Navy. A.H. Riise "Royal Danish Navy Frogman — Conventus Ranae" is hand-blended by our master distiller and aged in beautiful barrels - each with a unique history.

The Frogman Corps was established in 1957 and was inspired by the British Special Boat Service (SBS), America's Underwater Demolition Teams (UDT and Navy SEALs), and the Norwegian Marine Hunters. Maritime operations have and always will be one of the Corps' core duties.

After completing their service, Frogmen can join 'Conventus Ranae'

(Latin for 'a gathering of frogs'), the Frogmen's formal association that aims to strengthen ties between active and retired Frogmen.

In recent years, A.H. Riise has collaborated with Conventus Ranae. Among other things, this has led to the launch of the famous A.H. Riise "Danish Navy Frogman" and, in 2017, the exceptional "Royal Danish Navy Frogman 60" was launched to mark the Frogman Corps' 60th anniversary.
